SPORTING.
Football.
H.M.S. KING ALFRED v. H.M.S. FLORA.
Although the flagship only arrived yesterday morning and the football team has only played one match during the last six months, they showed their keenness for the game by turning out against the Flora yesterday afternoon in a Navy League match. Fleming scored the only goal of the match for his team, and although for the greater part of the game play was confined to the Flora territory, the forwards failed to again find the net.
Only two changes have taken place in the personnel of the King Alfred team, and the flagship is again likely to do well in the local competitions for which they have entered. As this will be their last season on the China Station it is to be hoped that will have patience and ability rewarded by winning either the Hongkong or the Army and Navy Shield.

88th Co. R.G.A. v. 87th Co. R.G.A.
This Second Division match was played on the Military ground yesterday afternoon. The Stonecutters Co. were not at full strength and 88th Co. had no difficulty in beating them by four goals to nil. The 88th Co. having won two matches this week now occupy the coveted position at the top of the League table and judging by their recent performance, unless there is a change, no doubt the matter will receive the consideration it deserves when the time comes.

Hockey.
HONGKONG v. ROYAL ENGINEERS.
A drawn game was played on the Club ground yesterday afternoon, each team scoring twice. This is a very creditable performance for the Sappers and although they have yet to register their first win this should only be a matter of time as they are rapidly improving.

evening that the celebration of St. Andrew's Day by local Scotsmen was not done with any desire to emphasize national differences. They as Scotsmen were proud of their own traditions, but true love of country was no narrow sentiment. "The man who loves his own country best," said Mr. Smith, "is the man most ready to appreciate the national sentiments of others. The highest form of patriotism, beginning like charity at home, broadens out in ever-widening circles, and while we are here to-night to proclaim ours in all its intensity, we do not forget that it was Scotland's greatest poet in his noblest mood who uttered the immortal—

"That men to men, the world o'er shall brethren be for a' that."

A somewhat similar theme engaged Mr. A. J. BALFOUR's attention recently, when, as guest of the Honourable Society of Cymmrodorion, he spoke of the intermingled three-fold chord which represents the people of the British Isles. He urged that the contributory streams which make up the great river of British history spring from different sources, flow through different countries, have scenery of a very different character on their banks, but all are required to make up the main river into which they flow. There is none of them that can be spared, and a pious investigation of the whole course is surely worthy of all those who may claim to belong to one or other of these contributory streams. He did not believe himself in any sharp divisions of race within these islands. He did not believe that history bears it out; nor did he think that anthropology bears it out; or that a minute study of character of different districts bears it out. There are differences, of course, but they melt into one another, and you cannot say, "This man is a Welshman and therefore he is descended from such and such Celtic tribe; this man comes from Ireland, that man comes from Northumberland, that one from Yorkshire, and therefore he is of such and such descent." There is no such thing in the British islands as a man of pure descent, from any race whatever; and he believed if the truth were known one would find that a race which has left no literature, no body of laws, no customs, no records behind it, has nevertheless left that which is as important as anything written either on parchment or upon stone or printed in books—has left in each one of us that trace of inherited aptitude of blood, an inheritance of people who were in Britain long before either the Celtic conquerors of one race or the Danes or the Saxons, or the Normans ever landed upon our shores. We are after all not precisely of one blood, but there is no sharp distinction to be drawn anywhere from the east coast of Kent to the furthestmost part of Ireland in which one can say—"Here one race ends and there another race begins."

Nevertheless Mr. Balfour is in favour of national associations such as we are now considering, and he holds that distinctively Welsh, Scottish and English societies have a mission to perform, even in the United Kingdom. To them can be entrusted the investigation of national traditions, and thus by working through old records of historic and literary interest they can cause every inhabitant of the three kingdoms to remember his origin, the origin and history of the particular part of the island in which he lives, and yet feel in full consciousness that all this leads up to the greater and fuller national life in which the particular is not forgotten, is not ignored, loses none of its effects, but joins in the full and harmonious chord in which the notes may be different but in which the effect is a unity. Mr. Balfour concluded by saying that we must all see that whatever be the future of the world, the prevailing language of Great Britain is going to be the dominant language of the future for all great literary and scientific purposes, and given for commercial purposes. That conviction did not militate in the least degree in his judgment against the studies which are the objects of these societies, which are the objects of a child as for as Mr. Balfour is concerned, and also for the people.

At the Magistrate's Court, before Mr. E. R. Halliday, a lady, who was charged with the theft of a diamond ring and a pair of gold bangles valued at $50 and $50 in money. It was alleged that she had stolen the goods from the person of a woman at a party given at the residence of Mr. P. H. Holyoak. The lady was found guilty and sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labour.

On the contrary, it is the common sense, that the patriotic work for a common end. A more defence of patriotic nations could not be desired and that before very long Hong Kong will not only in its St. Patrick's Society but will also have a St. Andrew's Society. The defendant was further induced to make the said contract by the fraudulent representation of the plaintiff that her intention was to return to England and to commence another boarding-house business in Hong Kong. In the alternative defendant said that by verbal agreement entered into by plaintiff and defendant on or about September 8 the plaintiff agreed not to set up another boarding-house in Hong Kong. Defendant further stated that according to the true construction of the contract plaintiff was precluded from setting up a boarding-house business in Hong Kong and from canvassing persons who had boarded with her in order to induce them to board in any boarding-house which she might set up. Plaintiff was sitting the premises at 74, Caine Road for the purposes of using the same as a boarding-house. Plaintiff did on September 8 canvass certain boarders who resided in the aforesaid boarding-house then being carried on by her for the purpose of inducing them to board in another boarding-house which she was about to open.

It was apparently abandoned. The Glenfalloch bore down and inspected the junk. It did not appear very much damaged; the mainmast had gone, damaging the port quarter slightly. There were no signs of life, and the Glenfalloch after sounding her siren several times proceeded on her way. The junk apparently had drifted from a anchorage. The Glenfalloch encountered a strong N.E. wind and high sea from Lat. 6 N. to Cap Rock.

A BOARDING HOUSE CLAIM.

Before Mr. Justice Gompertz, at the Supreme Court to-day, Rosalind A. Ford sued W. H. Embury to recover the sum of $500, being the balance due to the plaintiff under an agreement dated September 8, entered into by the defendant with the plaintiff for the purchase, by the defendant from the plaintiff, of the furniture and goods belonging to the plaintiff then in the house at No. 74, Caine Road.

A counterclaim was made and it stated that plaintiff is a widow and formerly carried on the business of a boarding-house keeper at No. 74 Caine Road and the defendant now carries on the business of a boarding-house keeper at No. 43, Robinson Road. The defendant was induced to make the alleged agreement, mentioned in the endorsement of the writ, by the fraudulent representation of the plaintiff that the boarding-house No. 74, Caine Road had been fully occupied by boarders from January to April in the present year. Defendant was further induced to make the said contract by the fraudulent representation of the plaintiff that her intention was to return to England and to commence another boarding-house business in Hong Kong. In the alternative defendant said that by verbal agreement entered into by plaintiff and defendant on or about September 8 the plaintiff agreed not to set up another boarding-house in Hong Kong. Defendant further stated that according to the true construction of the contract plaintiff was precluded from setting up a boarding-house business in Hong Kong and from canvassing persons who had boarded with her in order to induce them to board in any boarding-house which she might set up. Plaintiff was sitting the premises at 74, Caine Road for the purposes of using the same as a boarding-house. Plaintiff did on September 8 canvass certain boarders who resided in the aforesaid boarding-house then being carried on by her for the purpose of inducing them to board in another boarding-house which she was about to open.

Defendant claimed an injunction restraining plaintiff from opening or continuing to carry on a boarding-house in this Colony; rescission of the contract and the return of the sum of $500 paid by the defendant to the plaintiff on the signing thereof, or in the alternative the sum of $700 being the damages caused to him by the acts of the plaintiff.

The defence to the counterclaim was a denial of the plaintiff's statement that she was a boarding-house keeper and that no damages were due to defendant.

Mr. P. M. Hodgson appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. E. Hinds for the defendant on the counterclaim. On account of certain admissions in the pleadings, defendant had removed from No. 74 Caine Road to more commodious premises at 43 Robinson Road and since then plaintiff had re-occupied the premises at No. 74 Caine Road.

His Lordship—Supposing you get judgment what sort of judgment do you want? Mr. Hinds—I want judgment for damages. Mr. Hodgson—I submit your Lordship cannot give judgment; it all depends on the case.

His Lordship—Did you sell the goodwill? Mr. Hodgson—I admit we sold the goodwill at the time of the contract.

His Lordship—There is a written agreement? Mr. Hodgson—Yes. If my friend is entitled to judgment on that point your Lordship will direct accordingly.

Continuing Mr. Hodgson said that plaintiff was at present at No. 74 Caine Road and the counterclaim was by way of defence. Several allegations were made in the pleadings of fraud.

His Lordship—Do you say you have confessed? Mr. Hodgson—We deny that entirely. There was never a greater attempt to get out of a contract than defendant is attempting here, an attempt which your Lordship I am sure will see is absolutely unjustified and inflicting a great wrong on my client.

Plaintiff then gave evidence and detailed the circumstances of the case. She wanted to go away and had sent her baggage to Messrs. Butterfield and Swire's to go to Shanghai. She did not at that time contemplate opening another boarding-house. She would have waited until she got the final instalment of the purchase money and in all probability she would have remained at Shanghai so that she could be near her son's grave, and if she had told defendant that she might contemplate opening another boarding-house it would be nobody's business but her own. Defendant asked for no evidence that she would not open another boarding-house and there was no question of that. With in for the money had caused her great inconvenience. She returned to No. 74 Caine Road on November 8 as she was forced to do something for a living. She never confessed any boarders as she did not want them at that time.

Plaintiff was cross-examined by E. Hinds. Do you know Mrs. Barton?—Yes, I received her for defendant.

You never asked her to go to a boarding-house you were about to open?—No.

A Mr. Paul?—No. If these people said she did they would be making a mistake.

His Lordship gave judgment for the plaintiff for the amount claimed upon the understanding that the plaintiff agrees to leave No. 74 Caine Road as soon as proper notice can be given to the plaintiff's landlord; the plaintiff not to be precluded from setting up another boarding-house elsewhere. The question of costs was adjourned sine die.

THE POLITICAL ORIGIN.

CLOSING SPEECHES IN THE UPPER CHAMBER.

Lord Crewe's Fullest Warning.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)

London, December 1.

During the debate which preceded the adoption of Lord Lansdowne's Budget motion in the House of Lords, Lord Curzon declared that it was the inherent right of the Second Chamber, as a last resort, to compel reference to the people. He hoped that one of the consequences of the struggle would be a reformed House of Lords, fearless, independent and strong.

Lord Crewe, in winding up the debate, warned the Lords that they were steering their ship to a collision with the Commons, which they would find bigger and surer than theirs, and that the Opposition were committing the most tragical blunder. The Government did not welcome a crisis, but were prepared to face it because the interests of the country and the Empire depended on the maintenance of a reasonable balance between the governing powers of the State. Whether the Government were rejected or not, they would henceforth have to work to obtain guarantees to prevent the indiscriminate destruction of legislation on which that night's work put a climax and a crown.

The result of the division was received with applause and some hissing in the public galleries.

An enormous force of police had been posted outside the House in anticipation of a demonstration, but the crowd was a most orderly one.

Lord Lansdowne's residence was specially protected and the whole of Mayfair was patrolled by police.

A Cabinet meeting is being held to-day, after which Mr. Asquith will go to Sandringham for a meeting of the Privy Council for the purpose of preroguing Parliament.

At a meeting of the Labour party it was resolved that the liberties of the people are only secure by the total abolition of the House of Lords.

The primary object of this measure is to transfer from the Justice of the Peace to a Licensing Board consisting of seven Justices of the Peace the control of public houses and adjacent licenses with a view to ensuring conformity of policy in the control of public houses and adjacent licenses and to effecting reform in the existing Public House System. The requirement of the Principal Ordinance that a license shall enter into a recognizance is repealed, as any breach of the conditions under which a license is held can be fully dealt with under sections 38 and 39 of the Principal Ordinance. Adjunct licenses are now divided into two classes, viz. "Retail" and "Wholesale." "Retail" licenses are those which are held by a person who is engaged in the business of selling liquor for consumption on the premises where the liquor is sold. "Wholesale" licenses are those which are held by a person who is engaged in the business of selling liquor for consumption elsewhere. The definitions of which are given in section 2 of this Ordinance give the Government in Council power to make such regulations as may be thought fit for the purpose of controlling the business of an adjunct license. Section 11 empowers the Governor in Council to regulate the standard of quality of all intoxicating liquors sold in the Colony. The conditions of a Publican's License are given in section 15, and those of a Restaurant Adjunct License are given in section 16. The conditions of a Publican's License in section 16 and Form No. 10A respectively. Under section 19 the Governor in Council is given power to transfer the duty of issuing and renewing licenses from the Colonial Secretary to other officers. The Second Schedule provides for a new Scale of Fees.

THE PRATA HYPOCHEM.

Motion in Council.

At the meeting of the Legislative Council this afternoon, Hon. Mr. Murray Stewart moved—

That in the opinion of this Council steps should be taken to amend the Ordinance created by the condition of the plot of Government land between the Law Courts and the Praya.

Hon. Mr. Murray Stewart—I rise now to move that "in the opinion of this Council steps should be taken to amend the Ordinance created by the condition of the plot of Government land between the Law Courts and the Praya." Perhaps the best way to realize the nuisance referred to is to put oneself in the position of a stranger, a stranger and interested party now landing on the Praya opposite Queen Victoria's statue and looking first to his right front and then to his left would mark a striking contrast. On his right he would note with pleasure a well-kept grass plot bordered with flowers and enclosed by a handsome railing. On his left he would see an unsightly conglomeration of ramshackle and tattered materials, piles of rotting poles, odds and ends of old timber, untidy heaps of granite chipmunks, wood, green stock of bricks, cookehouses, other outbuildings—all the stagnant squalor which collects in a builder's yard. The fact that the tattered materials are in the occupation of a certain Chinese contractor is advertised, as the contractor is known to the public, and the observant stranger, noticing this, might imagine that there was a flagrant case of private ownership in land resulting in public wrong. Here, he might say, "is a case where it would clearly be right for the State to step in and to force the owner of this prominently situated plot either to put it to some less unseemly use or submit to a forced sale." He might continue, without going all the way with the Chancellor of Exchequer, that the State should acquire the ownership should carry with them such an utter want of consideration for the proprieties of city government and so imperfect a sense of the fitness of things, as to lease out for such a purpose land adjoining a public square. If the stranger, as well as being observant and interested, happened also to be a distinguished and had been taken charge of on landing by an emissary of the Government, say by the Hon. the Director of Public Works, how could it be so easily explained that these well-kept gardens were the outward and visible sign of public spirit, displayed by private citizens and that the hideous spectacles of disorder lying to the left was created and maintained by the governing power? The Government apologists recalling certain answers to recent questions would say that the nuisance was necessary to the work on the new Post Office, which building would be pointed out in the distance. Possibly with pride, as one whose four sides it had, the stranger would say, "I have seen along the Praya towards the Club the stranger would first note a squat bungalow. He would be told that it is a special drawing office for new Post Office plans, the building being now up. He would make a mental note that such an ugly structure ought never to have been erected in a prominent position on the sea front. Next his curiosity would be aroused by the sight of four lean and rusty iron chimneys sticking up at varying angles, one out of each of the four corners of a small structure immediately in rear of the ugly bungalow. He would look in and see that each of these chimneys rose out of a brick oven. He would see and lying about and small stones in heaps. He would conclude that the stranger would say, "I have seen along the Praya towards the Club the stranger would first note a squat bungalow. ## INTERPORT CRICKET ITEMS.

Festival Features in Figures.

Many interesting facts are revealed by an analysis of the score-book which records the happenings in the palm of cricket during the interport festival just concluded. Below we give some of the more pointed details.

Batting.

The total runs produced by all the players taking part in the various matches reached 2,768. This figure, which includes extras, makes an average of just over 184 per innings on the 15 times that the teams went to the wickets. Hongkong heads the list both in the aggregate and in the individual average. The figures are: Hongkong, 1,097 (an average of 219 per innings); Straits, 609, (average, 167); Shanghai, 450 (average, 150); Combined Team, 382 (average, 191). The Champions claim an average in runs scored over their nearest opponents (Straits) of 428.

Although there were no less than 2-2 "extras" recorded, just under 18 per innings. These were given in the following proportions:—84 while Hongkong were at the wickets, 80 Straits, 41 Shanghai, 57 Combined Team. The actual runs obtained off the bat were thus:—Hongkong, 1,013; Straits, 589; Shanghai, 579; Combined Team, 325.

Still disregarding "extras," the 40 Hongkong wickets fell for an average of just over 23 runs, the same number as Shanghai's were disposed of at an average of 14, thirty-six of the Straits' went at an average of 16, while twenty of the Combined Team's were accounted for at an average of 10.

In the matter of high individual scoring in one innings Hongkong led the way with the two best men, Edwards coming first with 119 and Maundrell following close on with 96. The former man's score included nineteen 4's and two 6's, and Maundrell's comprised fourteen 4's and one 6. Turner's score of 76 against Shanghai included fifteen 4's.

So far as aggregate runs were concerned Greiner (Straits) led the way with 216 to his credit, though Bairstow (Hongkong) having played in a few number of innings had the best average, 44. Edwards (Hongkong), who batted three times, came next with an average of 47-6.

In order of merit the highest one innings scores for the various teams were:—Hongkong, Edwards, 119; Shanghai, Shackleton, 83; Combined Team, Greiner, 79; Straits, Eddie, 74. The best aggregate was:—Greiner (Straits), 216; Pearce (Hongkong), 176; Anderson (Shanghai), 124.

The highest not-out scores obtained were:—Zehnder (Straits), 63; Anderson (Shanghai), 46; Iagnall (Hongkong), 37.

Irrespective of not-outs, the greatest number of "ducks" in one innings was four, this number being recorded against Shanghai in their second venture against Hongkong. Altogether there were 18 registered during the Festival by 13 players. Seven were divided by 6 Shanghai batsmen, one each went to 6 Hongkong players, while the remaining 5 were from three Straits bats, Hickey (Straits), who played in four innings, made the worst show, three appearing opposite his name.

The highest single innings total in runs was Hongkong's record score of 455 for 9 wickets, a ninth Shanghai, and the smallest was the 78 made by Shanghai in their second response to this. The most productive double innings was that of the Straits against Shanghai, 390; while the smallest was the 231 made by Shanghai against the Combined Team.

The best stand made by a pair of batsmen was during the association of Edwards and Turner in the opening match against Shanghai, these men putting on no less than 166 before being separated. Even after the disappearance of Turner the other man scored to see 80 added to the score.

Hongkong's win over Shanghai by an innings and 224 runs was the biggest victory achieved, while the closest match was that won by the Combined Team against Hongkong, there being only 21 difference in the total.

The amount of energy expended in bowling can be imagined from the fact that no less than 773 overs were delivered. The number of maidens was 139.

Most wickets were procured by Bird (Hongkong), who was credited with no less than 30. They were secured at an average of 10-6 runs, a really fine record. In the matter of averages, however, Dagnall (Hongkong) leads the way, having accounted for three wickets at an average of 8-3. Most maidens were credited to Bird (Hongkong), 33; while the most severely punished bowler was Mackenzie (Straits), who had 122 runs made off his deliveries, and only accounted for two wickets.

The highest number of runs scored in one over was 30 off the bowling of Greiner (Straits), this being in the match between the Combined Team and Hongkong. The figure comprised one 6, three 4's and a 2. Strange to say, in the same match this bowler had the distinction of accounting for the greatest number of wickets in one over, 3.

An analysis of the manner in which the various players were disposed of shows that during the Festival there were no less than 80 catches effected, 31 wickets clean bowled, before given 9 times, 4 stumped and 4 run out.

The biggest number of catches in one innings was 8 during the Combined Team's first venture, though there were no fewer than five occasions when 7 were accounted for in this way in one innings.

The greatest number clean bowled in a completed innings was 5, this being when Hongkong faced the Combined Team the second time.

There was only one occasion when a whole side were disposed of in one innings without a single man being clean bowled, that being on the first venture of the Combined Team.

The man to clean bowl the largest number in one innings was Oliver (Hongkong), who took three of Shanghai's wickets in the latter's second innings.

The distinction of having held the greatest number of catches goes to Garnett (Hongkong), with 9 to his credit. Baird held the most in one innings, taking 4 of the Shanghai men in their opening venture. His aggregate is only 5 short of Garnett's total, as also is Anderson's (Shanghai).

Green and Pearce (Hongkong) and Eddie (Straits) each held around half dozen catches, while Edmonstone (Straits) and Oliver (Hongkong) were credited with 5 each.

Wins and Losses.

In cricket Hongkong won two matches and lost one, the Combined Team won one, Straits won one and lost one, while Shanghai lost two and won none. There were no drawn games.
